

Rich Suitor Slain At Woman's Door

Stamford Police Use Microscope on Bloody Footprints to Determine Slayer—Skull Crushed as by Bottle—Woman Grows Hysterical as Friends Seek to Hush Tragedy.

By ALICE ROHE.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 24.—Bloody footprints, which led from the apartment of Mrs. Helen Angle to where W. R. Ballou, her rich suitor, was found battered to death at her door, were microscopically photographed this morning in the belief that they will show the slayer.

Leading from Mrs. Angle's door to the bottom of the stairs, where Ballou's body, his skull smashed as though with a bottle, lay where it was found at 10:55 o'clock last night, the bloody footprints, which were small, showed heavy on the trip down the stairs. The police believe the person making them bore a load.

On enlargements of these footprints, which will show markings of the skin, the police will depend largely to show whose was the hand that struck Ballou down and whose the feet which bore his maimed and battered body to the street.

Arrested after the crime was discovered, Mrs. Angle was reported to have been hysterical all through the night. Influential friends have exerted themselves to quiet the case. Every avenue of official information was closed. But this afternoon Coroner John J. Phelan, of Bridgeport, will hold the first public investigation into the tragedy.

NO TRACE OF WEAPON.

No trace of the weapon with which Ballou was killed had been found. It was reported, however, that Ballou's knife, blood stained, was discovered on the back porch of the Angel apartment. The dead man's body was found at the front of the stairs, in front.

An admission, when she was arrested, that Ballou had been at her home until 10 o'clock last night, when she said, he left, was made by Mrs. Angle. Today, the police assert, she declared she telephoned Ballou to come to see her. The mystery of what happened was deepened by the report of a policeman on the beat that he was in the hallway to the Angel apartment at 10:30 o'clock, and that there was certainly nobody there then.

It was learned today that Mrs. Angle was not a widow, as was generally supposed in Stamford. She was divorced about five years ago from Frank Angle, who is said to live in Bridgeport. Whether the husband of the woman knew anything of her affair with Ballou, whether he was in any way concerned with the death of his former wife's sixty-seven-year-old suitor, have not yet been determined.

take his motorboat and his money when they got hold of him.

Sheriff Hardy and a party have gone to Harmony Station to investigate this phase of the case and in the meantime Chief Howard, of the Chesapeake Beach police force, will continue the investigation of the case.

Eggleston is forty years of age, a physician and a graduate of Georgetown University. He lives with his wife and two children on Oak avenue, Takoma Park, and is very highly regarded by his neighbors. He has been prominently identified with the Boy Scout movement and was drilling his troop of scouts when arrested.

He is said to be a son of James Eggleston, a New York millionaire. He rented the cottage in which it is alleged the offense was to be committed, for the season, at $5 per month, telling the landlord he would make $2,000 out of the place during the summer.

Richard King, one of the alleged conspirators, is a native of Chesapeake Beach and some time ago was sent to the Maryland State Penitentiary for the alleged killing of a woman. He served a short time and was released on parole. His assistant, who he did not want to be a party to the crime and deliberately warned away. He acknowledged receiving the warning. Thomas Gant is also known as William Cary. He is about 45 years old and is a native of Chesapeake Beach.

a revolver, declared that King was coming with him. The pair hurried to the automobile on the run and, jumping in, King let go and told Neill to speed up. The insurance man went to Upper Marlborough and notified Sheriff Hardy.

Arrest of Two.

Hardy and Cave returned to Chesapeake Beach immediately and the arrest of King and Gant followed. These men stated that Eggleston hired the house and had told them to bring Cave here. Eggleston was arrested at his home, in Takoma, and taken to Marlboro to jail until this morning, when he was removed to Chesapeake Beach for the hearing.

Witnesses Examined.

The witnesses examined this morning were King, Gant, Cave and Neill. They told the story, the substance of which has been given King further stated that Eggleston had told him it was not intended to hurt Cave. They simply intended to strip him and get away with his automobile.

King also said that a letter had been addressed to a person named Muckett, of Washington, who owned a motorboat, to meet them this afternoon at Harmony Station on the Patuxent river. This man had been selected for a victim, he said. It was intended to
